Mr. Rocher Cyrus

Global International Management LLC

PRESENTATION

'Cybersecurity is for all of us'

The role of the accountant and finance professionals with regards to Cybersecurity

Mr. Cyrus gained over more than 13 years of international audit and consulting experience at Price Waterhouse Coopers and KPMG in the Netherlands, South America, Caribbean and the US. He is a frequent speaker on Cyber Security conferences such as the AICPA & CIMA Cybersecurity event in New York.

As Managing Director of Global International Management, he developed a cybersecurity practice that helps clients and firms understand and manage their cybersecurity risks.

In addition he provides training, tools and technology to audit and consult firms, strengthening them to become a trusted party within this field. With Global International Management, Mr. Cyrus specifically focusses on firms and companies in so called 'underserved and remote' regions, such as the Caribbean and South America.

Before his role at Global International Management LLC, he managed high profile financial statement audits at PwC Rotterdam and KPMG, of primarily multinationals listed on the New York Stock Exchange, and included on the Fortune 500.

Mr. Cyrus is a strong promotor and advocate driving innovation and technology, while identifying and mitigating the Cybersecurity risks.

Furthermore, he is the authorized channel partner of the AICPA, Confirmation.com and Becker Professional Education for the (Dutch) Caribbean and Suriname.

National Security Service of Aruba (NSSA).

PRESENTATION:

'The impact of Cyber-attack on the economy'

ABOUT THE SPEAKER

Mr. Juri Nicolaas is the current director of the National Security Service of Aruba (NSSA). He received his master's degree in Political Science and International Relations from the Radboud University, Nijmegen School of Management in The Netherlands.

He started his career at the NSSA as an Intelligence Analyst.

He joined the management staff of the National Security Service and was eventually selected and appointed as its director in August 2008.

During his ongoing tenure of ten years as director, Mr. Nicolaas has pursued regional cooperation and information-sharing, and the exchange of know-how and best practices, to elevate the standard and to promote the professionalism of the NSSA.

He has also actively championed the importance of having more "civilian" intelligence and security services within the Caribbean and South American region, without minimizing the importance of both military and law enforcement when it comes to intelligence gathering.

He continuously stresses the significance of proper oversight to be in place for Intelligence and Security Services. He has collaborated as a guest speaker at numerous regional conferences on topics ranging from "critical infrastructure protection" to the "insider threat" emanating from transnational organized crime to national security, as well as cybersecurity issues.

Mr. Nicolaas was awarded the "Intelligence Directorate" medal, "Teniente Coronel Javier Antonio Uribe-Uribe", by the Ministry of Defense of Colombia, for his valuable contribution to the Colombian National Police Intelligence Agency, as well as its regional partners.

As director of the National Security Service of Aruba, Mr. Nicolaas interacts with a broad range of actors, including, but not limited, to government, law enforcement, military officials and other public –private actors.
